Going Out of Business. Retiring. Moving.

"Just yesterday, I spoke to a friend who decided to close his business. I immediately said you need to call Rick Hayes or Josh Hayes and discuss it with them. They are the only people I would ever recommend."

"My name is C. Howard Moore III and I'm a 3rd generation owner of Claude Moore Jeweler in Mobile, Alabama. I grew up in the family business and it's been a joy. We love what we do and we've made a lot of people happy.

We're members of The American Gem Society and of course, I'm a graduate of the Gemological Institute of America (GIA).

We heard of Wilkerson through some dear friends in Tennessee, who are like family to us. They closed not one, but two businesses, and Wilkerson helped them. We had heard of Wilkerson for many years and it was always so positive. When we decided to close our business, it was a no brainer.

Sharon and Ken have coached us every day. They've steered the ship for us. We have tried to do every single thing they have suggested because of their experience at doing this type of event, which is outside the box for us. To their credit, everything they have suggested has worked perfectly. It's seamless and has taken all the pressure off of us.

The sale has absolutely helped us with our financial goals. For me to be able to retire, we needed to liquidate our inventory and it has been very successful in that regard. We are tremendously pleased with how it is going.

I've always been very conscious of our image in the community. It has been handled so well. I've gotten nothing but compliments from customers. You get a tear in one eye and a smile on their face. They understand why we are going out of business but they are going to miss us. We couldn't have done that without Wilkerson!

Like my friends in Tennessee, I really believe a business succeeds through word of mouth. Just yesterday, I spoke to a friend who decided to close his business. I immediately said you need to call Rick Hayes or Josh Hayes and discuss it with them. They are the only people I would ever recommend."
